Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 2/21/06.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Rejections under 35 USC 112 have been overcome by Applicant's amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12, 13 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dixon (2219624). Note the side panels (10, 11), and rigid members (22, 22). Also note that Dixon is capable of supporting a flexible platen as set forth in the instant claims.

Claims 12, 13 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hansson et al (3650563). Note the side panels (26, 26), and rigid members (27, 27, 27). Also note that Hansson et al is capable of supporting a flexible platen as set forth in the instant claims.

Claims 12, 13 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Moreno (3195954). Note the side panels (2-3, 7-8), rigid members (4-6), and mounting slot (see Figure 1B). Also note that Moreno is capable of supporting a flexible platen as set forth in the instant claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moreno (3195954) in view of Thorne (2865436). The primary reference shows all claimed features of the instant invention with the exception of the opposite edges of the panel being covered with a soft resilient foam strip. Note the discussion of the primary reference above. The secondary reference teaches providing opposite edges of the panel of a seating assembly as covered with a soft resilient foam strip (52). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the pertinent art at the time of the instant invention to modify the primary reference in view of the teachings of the secondary reference by configuring opposite edges of the panel as covered with a soft resilient foam strip. Such enhances user comfort and safety.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Dixon (2219624) or Hansson et al (3650563) in view of Reid et al (574630). Each of the primary references shows all claimed features of the instant invention with the exception of each rigid member having a wheel-support mechanism mounted on it which is manually moveable between two positions at the first of which the wheels extend beneath the underside of the article to enable it to be rolled along the ground, and at the second position of which the wheels are stowed wholly between the two outlines of the panels so that the article can rest on convex under edges of the panels. Note the discussion of each primary reference above. The secondary reference teaches providing a rocker assembly with each rigid member having a wheel-support mechanism (A, B, E, G, H) mounted on it which is manually moveable between two positions at the first of which the wheels extend beneath the underside of the article to enable it to be rolled along the ground, and at the second position of which the wheels are stowed wholly between the two outlines of the panels so that the article can rest on convex under edges of the panels. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the pertinent art at the time of the instant invention to modify either primary reference in view of the teachings of the secondary reference by configuring each rigid member as having a wheel-support mechanism mounted on it which is manually moveable between two positions at the first of which the wheels extend beneath the underside of the article to enable it to be rolled along the ground, and at the second position of which the wheels are stowed wholly between the two outlines of the panels so that the article can rest on convex under edges of the panels. Each provides a means to selectively move the assembly between a static and a mobile configuration.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 16 and 19-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Amendment/Arguments

Applicant's response has been fully considered. Remaining issues are described in the above sections.

Conclusion

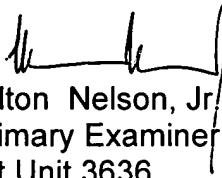

This Office action has not been made final since it includes a new grounds of rejection not necessitated by Applicant's amendment.
